THE Y. P. S. NITE OF NONSENZ VERY ENTERTAINING

The Memorial Hall was well filled Tuesday evening last by an audience eager to hear the concert given under the auspices of the Y. P. S.

Rev E. B. Brundage made a very happy and interested Chairman, and filled in any short intervals by humorous witticisms.

The programme as a whole provided an interesting succession of clever, musical and mirth provoking incidents and was thoroughly enjoyable evening. There were about forty young people taking part and it was very evident that the group possessed a large amount of ability, that was clearly demonstrated by the effective manner in which the entire programme was carried through.

Much credit was extended and pretty bouquets of carnations were presented by the Y. P. S. to Miss Phoebe Garrett and Mrs. A. Lyall for their much painstaking care and time in directing and preparing the programme.

The musical part was arranged by Miss Garrett while Mrs. Lyall directed in the presentation of the two plays.

The orchestra composed of Miss Garrett at the piano, Conductor Max Walla with Doug Shrimpton, Phoebe Garrett, Fred Hirtle, Billy Keeling, Fred Hirtle comprising the orchestra proved a very creditable group of musicians, as was heard to render in their own dance orchestra of the future.

The wedding of the baton in the hands of the conductor was exceedingly funny.

A one act play, "A Pair of Lunatics" was well carried through by Jerry Davidson and Douglas Shrimpton.

The Duet by Alice Garrett and Fred Hirtle was pleasingly given. The Chorus, Love Philosophy, was an exceedingly pretty and tuneful item. The colorful dresses of the girls and the boys in their white shirts and trousers with the graceful dance made a most interesting number.

Comprising this chorus were the Misses Helen Shrimpton, Beattie O'Hanlon, Jean McGregor, Phyllis Bower, Alice Garrett, Elsie Sorenson, Bernice Whitehead, Margaret Fraser, Verma Bell, Beryl Jacobs, Genevieve Callaghan and Joie Hiltner and Elsie Wright, Jack O'Hanlon, Andrew Garrett, Fred Taylor, Elmer Gray, Carl Shrimpton, Teddy Schutte, Doug Shrimpton, Stewart Lyall, Ken Wright, Max Walla, Holly Brown and Don Nichol as understudy.

The solos in this number were sweetly taken by Alice Garrett and Beattie O'Hanlon.

A exceedingly funny skit, The Spring Dance, had Porteus and Elsie Wright, alias Suse, made quite a lot of fun.

A modern Crooner proved to be Herb Ellis in a very funny routine. The audience laughed on an encore.

Farwell to Arms by the Orchestra was the next pleasing item. The play "A Kiss in the Dark," in which the actors carried through their various roles in a really capable manner. The Beryl Jacobs, Miss Bertha Gray and Mr. Elmer Gray as Mr. and Mrs. Jay Walker, Carl Sorenson as the interesting guest and his wife Jean McGregor.

GOLF CLUB ANNUAL PARTY

The Golf Club held their annual card party in the dining room of the Strathmore Hotel Wednesday May 2nd.

Fifteen tables were in play and after refreshments Mr. Perry presented the prizes for bridge and for the competitions played during the year.

Mrs. Hickie won the ladies bridge prize and Mr. P. Nicholson, the gentlemen's. The golf prizes were as follows:

Championship, Mrs. May, Mrs. Hickie runner up.

Second, second flight Miss Helen Marcum and Mrs. Koch runner up.

The Green Score Cup was won by Mrs. McFarland. Mrs. McFarland keeps this cup having won it three successive years.

Three consecutive years were presented, one each to Mrs. Dewar and Annie Collison who cleverly took the part of the maid. While each took their parts well, special mention should be made of Elmer Gray who seemed to live rather than act his part.

The opening chorus given by the full membership Hokum and Solum with orchestral accompaniment gave a foretaste of what was to follow.

The words of this humorous skit were composed by Miss F. Garrett, Andrew Garrett and Max Walla.

God Save the King concluded the evening's programme.

The concert proved a neat little affair for the society.

CO-OPERATION FOR HUMAN WELFARE

(By Bert Hoffman)

Editor, The Strathmore Herald.

Many working people are alarmed when they think that government ownership of all the great public utilities and necessary industries might throw them out of employment.

If they will only stop to think and study the question for the fraction of a second they will see that exactly opposite will be the case.

Under government ownership shorter hours will prevail, more workers will be employed, an absolute security of year job will prevail as long as you do your work, compulsory life and unemployment insurance will be secured, all contributing to the fund and living conditions will inevitably improve.

The object of all industrial plants today, under capitalism is to make profits for the private capitalist. Workers are forced to work for the capitalist, and as a result, the big business magnate, at the expense of his workers, profits.

As soon as the public takes over the ownership of the plant, the workers are no longer forced to work for the capitalist, but for the community.

At the last meeting of the Y. P. S. Dr. John Giffon of Strathmore was the guest speaker for the evening. He gave an interesting address on the subject of "The Future of the Community."

He said that the community is a group of people who are living together and who are interested in the welfare of the community as a whole.

TOWN COUNCIL HOLD REGULAR MEETING

Tuesday night a regular meeting of the Strathmore Council was held at the Strathmore Hotel. Mayor Shrimpton presided and all the Councilors present when Secretary T. M. Wears read the minutes of the last meeting which being found correct were duly confirmed.

The matter of relief was discussed and decided that anyone on relief who does not answer a call to work promptly will be cut off the list.

The Secretary was instructed to move more give first notice to those in arrears for rentals that action will be stated if arrangements are not made for payment.

Mayor Shrimpton expressed his pleasure in regard to the improvement that has been made to the roads at the cemetery.

A new Deputy Mayor for May, June and July was appointed in the person of Councilor C. Keeling who is in office for these months.

CANADIAN BUYS RACE TRACK
ONE MINUTE—TALKS
HOCKEY THE NEXT

Chicago: Joe Catterinich, hockey and horse racing magnate is giving Chicago an impressively bewildering lesson in race track organization.

A week ago Catterinich came here to confer with Major McLaughlin of Chicago Black Hawks, about a possible deal with his Canadiens of Montreal.

One week ago he closed a deal whereby he and Bob Elder, Jr. of New Orleans took control of the Aurora track, which closed last year because of too much competition.

A day later he had the dates for his 18 day spring meeting to open and had paid his license fee.

Nearly 500 new horses are now at the Aurora stable. Handicaps and allowances are being arranged.

A 15000 Aurora Derby already is slated and Joe Catterinich is ready to make his third attempt to crash the local racing scene.

That's the way Catterinich moves—lightning like. He now is connected with eight race tracks, Fairmount in southern Illinois, Jefferson Park at New Orleans, Fairbridge in Ohio, Taintown, Dural, Blue Bonnets and Niagara Falls in Canada, in addition to Aurora.

On the side Catterinich controls the Canadians and two Montreal farms at Quebec and Providence. He also owns stock in the Montreal club of the International League.

SCHOOLBOY ROWE IS MOST COLORFUL PLAYER TO BREAK INTO BIG TIME IN YEARS

Chicago: It hasn't been officially decided yet whether Lynwood Rowe is another Walter Johnson or another Babe Ruth.

It has been decided that the huge 21 year old Arkansas youth and rookie hurler for the Chicago White Sox, current enemies of the Tigers. The Sox got their fill of Schoolboy on April 15 when he shut them out with six hits in his major league debut.

This spring the training grapevine brought tales of a big Detroit rookie whose fast ball went over their heads and whose hitting was almost phenomenal.

But there he is with the Tigers, and even Ducky Harris says, Well he's a pretty good prospect—for a youngster.

Schoolboy was a student at Eldorado, Ark. when the Tigers heard about him. He could pitch and he could hit. After running the minors he wound up with Beaumont last year winning 19 and losing 7. He Detroit brought him along it was Rowe's ambition to win his first major league start and Harris sent him against the Sox at Detroit. Al Simmons, up in the second inning kept hobbling around to get Schoolboy's goat. Rowe watched Al wiggle around and didn't throw until Simmons sat down and was ready to swing. Then he fanned the Sox slapper.

Late to pitch? I asked Rowe. Sure I do, he drawled, but I'd rather hit. Boy, that's what I like, hitting.

Lucky Harris, who's not what you'd call a chatterbox is going to let Rowe pitch a while, but the big youth later may be shifted to the outfield.

Did you go to college? Well, I was at Texas for two weeks but couldn't stay. I'd already signed to play professional ball.

Schoolboy throws right, and when he throws his 200 pound built behind his knees, they whistle. They call him Schoolboy because he was in eighth grade when a Detroit scout cornered him. Rowe's father was a circus trapeze performer and had to sign Schoolboy's first contract, because the kid was far under age.

He's big, hard, moister and completely unafraid of the job ahead. Rowe has all the natural attributes of a great ball player. He's another Arkansas who's just a couple of years ahead of him—Lon Warneke, of the Cubs.

MANY GOOD HOGS IN WESTERN CANADA

The Industrial Council of Canadian Meat Packers say that in 1932 Canada marketed about 2,180,000 hogs. Of these the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta produced 1,781,000. Fifty six per cent of the hogs marketed alive by this country were produced in the three western provinces.

Of the 1,781,000 hogs Alberta produced 1,068,000, Sask 451,000 and Manitoba 261,000. 56 per cent 27 1/2 per cent and 16 per cent respectively. The figures are sufficient evidence of the great importance that hog production in Western Canada, and particularly in Alberta, has assumed in our national bacon policy. When it is considered that practically all of the feed grains in Canada not now used for feeding livestock are produced in these same provinces the possibilities in hog raising part of Canada become still plainer. With the handicap of very high freight rates on domestic distribution of grains the conditions strongly favor the increase of hogs where the surplus grain supplies exist. Western Canada.

It costs $2.50 in freight alone to move enough barley from Regina to an inland point in Ontario to produce one hundred pounds of live hog. The hog can be moved from the same point in Ontario for less than $1 per hundred live.

Time gives the western hog producer a very important advantage. But it the hog is of better quality and sells for $1 per 100 lb. less than an Ontario select grade hog then this very important advantage is lost and turned into a deficit when the natural advantage of the East are given no weight.

Successful increase in hog production, then depends on two factors, i. e. feed supplies and value of the hogs. The three western provinces have more than ample feed supplies to double their present volume. Can they sell this number to advantage? The future of hog production in the West must be measured by Canada's ability to export the surplus product. By the Ottawa Conference agreement Canada may freely export to Britain 2,200,000 hogs in the form of bacon of good quality each year. In 1932 our exports of pork of all kinds did not exceed 275,000 hogs. In 1925, the peak year of export since the war, Canada exported a little over a million hogs as bacon. Since that time domestic consumption has heavily increased. With higher hog prices, and consequent increased cost of pork to the domestic consumer, home consumption may be again expected to decline to some extent. But allowing for that, it probably would be fair to estimate that on the basis of hog marketings for 1932 (the highest marketing ever recorded) there would not be more than 700,000 to spare for export. This leaves a deficit in our possible exports of 700,000 hogs. It would therefore, be possible under the Ottawa agreement to dispose of large increases in the number of hogs from Western Canada if they produced bacon of good quality.

Markets for the products of western hogs then narrow down to the question of quality. Of the 1,781,000 hogs marketed in the three western provinces in 1932 not nearly 500,000 would have made good export Whitehill quality. In view of the remarkable opportunity for expansion of production, limited only by the stipulation of quality, this is a startling situation. It should arouse every responsible person in Western Canada to immediate action.

The price factor in production expansion is plainly and solely a question of quality. Supplies of good feeds are in abundance, the market outlet is arranged. The amount of money which will be secured by western farmers for their hogs will depend on their suitability for export mainly as Whitehill sides.

Alberta marketed a million hogs alive in 1932. Not five per cent of them were of high class Whitehill quality. Another ten per cent may have been of medium to low class Whitehill quality. This is too generous an estimate but let it go. What then does Alberta propose to do with the remainder of her hogs? She has no large domestic consumption capacity. Perhaps a couple of hundred thousand may be disposed of into British Columbia. It is plain that a great mass must move East, either as product or alive. But it is easy to overlook the domestic markets with product. To be bound to the domestic markets merely because of failure to produce exportable quality must surely become disastrous to Alberta farmers.

Natural conditions in Alberta must be favorable to have brought this province forward so rapidly in hog numbers. But in Alberta is found the poorest breeding stock (particularly in the south) to be found in large numbers anywhere in Canada. Rearing and feeding practices, in large sections, are lamentable. These things can be remedied if once gone at with a will by the farmers and the Government. Alberta needs increasing numbers of hogs in her farm economy. To make them of export quality is the one vital need for success.

Saskatchewan marketed nearly 500,000 hogs in 1932. This year the estimate shows an increase. The breeding stock is on the whole better than in Alberta. Intelligent effort has been put forth to make it so, and there is now sufficient foundation stock to permit of rapid improvement, albeit there are large unimproved sections. But the rearing and feeding practices almost under all the good work in the dissemination of the proper type of hogs. In this the bad fan-the conditions of the past few years must be taken into consideration. Allowing for this the fact that Saskatchewan hogs, even where there was no feed scarcity, have been badly reared and the result is that this province produces only somewhat better hogs than Alberta and adds a load of product unsuitable for export. A great improvement in quality could be quickly effected in producers and Government, realizing the opportunity in the export market, would at once concentrate on the task of bettering the rearing and feeding practices while at the same time improving type.

Manitoba produces the best stock in Western Canada. Bacon types are more widely disseminated in this province than in the others and the art of feeding is better understood. But unfortunately the numbers produced are only 16 per cent of the total 280,000 in 1932. The heaviest decrease in 1932 in Western Canada is indicated as having taken place in Manitoba. This is unfortunate in view of the fact that Manitoba has found it necessary to go more and more into the type of farming practiced in the East—the production of feed grains and animal products. This type farming, and the great flow of product it only for the domestic market from the other provinces, should spur Manitoba to every effort to make a large percentage of her hogs fit for export product. It can easily be done in this province and increasing numbers will in the end, to the benefit of her farm economy.

Every allowance should be made for the deplorable conditions of the past few years and the very discouraging price conditions for a year and a half. They have resulted in large numbers of light or even and scrawny hogs being marketed. This should change greatly in a short time if proper steps are taken to get producers into the system of proper rearing and feeding. Much will still have to be done in improving type in all the provinces. In Alberta drastic and revolutionary action with regard to breeds and types is imperative.

Black single types should be done. The breeding of black or black spotted hogs should cease. Their product cannot be easily exported as Whitehill. Red hogs are better than black, but not as desirable as white. White hogs of good type should be bred to the greatest possible extent.

Attenuated, thin flanked, long legged, narrow bodied, and coarse thick shouldered and short stubby hogs should be rigidly discarded.

The little pigs should be developed steadily by a regular system of feeding so that they will market as finished hogs in from six to seven months of age. Feed should be banded so as to allow the proper development of the pigs. Pigs should develop to finish at 200 lb. live weight. They should then be marketed.

The West has the future of hog production in Canada in its hands. The British market is ours with just one stipulation—QUALITY.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Edson R. Walte of Shawnee, Oklahoma writes that the present plight of many industries has been brought about by the high prices of the past more than by the low prices of the present.

It seems that in some towns the people are satisfied to sit down and lament over the past and give no thought to the future. If they won't wake up, pep up and get behind some real leaders, they might just as well let the home city die and have some one preach the funeral oration and the live ones move on to some other town.

The virtues of government ownership if business in competition with its citizens may be attractive to theory but too often becomes mirages in actuality.
